This stone-built house is set under a slate hip roof with an attractive conical roof canopy over the upper floor bay window. The house has well established back and front gardens. The later addition of an adjoining garage is accessed by a monoblock driveway that also provides off street parking.

The front door opens into the hall that is naturally lit from the widow on the stair's half landing. The hall provides direct access to all ground floor rooms and also has a large store cupboard. The spacious bay windowed sitting room overlooks the front garden. There is a separate dining room with an adjoining door through to the kitchen. The utility room houses the gas fired central heating boiler and, to the back of the house, there is a naturally lit shower room. To complete the ground floor accommodation, a vestibule, leading off the hall, gives access to the back garden.

The stairs lead to the half landing from which the smallest bedroom that would also make an ideal study or office is accessed. It also provides a further useful store cupboard. The stairs continue to the main landing that again has a built-in cupboard. The comfortable principal bedroom has a bay window and there are a further two double bedrooms. The naturally lit shower room has a three piece suite. The house is double glazed and has gas fired central heating.

Location

Harburn Road lies on the south east side of the village of West Calder, situated in West Lothian. The village's bustling Main Street offers a variety of independent shops, a Scotmid supermarket for daily groceries and provisions, and a choice of cafes, pubs and eateries, while more extensive shopping is available at The Livingston Centre, formerly Almondvale Shopping Centre and The Livingston Designer Outlet that are both within easy reach that together offer more than 100 high-street stores and designer outlets.

West Calder has its own primary school, while secondary education is available at West Calder High School, a state-of-the-art school built in 2018. The 1,100 pupil capacity school is West Lothian's biggest single investment in education and has been designed with the pupil experience at its core, as well as providing facilities accessible to the local community.

Sport, exercise and leisure are catered for by West Calder's community centre with its fully equipped gym, a dance studio, an outdoor pitch, and tennis courts.

Ideal for commuters, West Calder has road links via the M8 motorway network to Edinburgh and Glasgow and its own railway station that operates regular services to both Edinburgh and Glasgow.
